

Many years ago, the CB operator (I use to be one as a truck driver) had plans to infiltrate Ham Radio by any means possible, which was to get the code requirement deleted, AND, it looks like they have and are doing so. True to their very wise and deceitful planning. I am against it!!! They want to to 'talk' on Ham Radio frequencies? Fine let them talk on 2 meters! I've listen to school children here local on the 2 meters and it's interesting and thus far tolerable!? I enjoyed my CW when I started, many yrs ago, for over 2 yrs as a Novice. It was a learning process and good experience for me. Hear me! Should the code be deleted all together, you will have Ham frequencies being over ran by 'no code' operator and it will again be like the CB radio. Trust me!!! FCC no longer has monitors, as I understand, for it is now self policed by Ham Operators. I can remember when 'Charlie' was 'in town' and was fining and taking CB equipment from the operator that abuse the CB privilege. There are records on file now that Ham Operators are doing the same now! What will it be in the near future if code is deleted. I think more strict qualification should be added!!!

That my comment and complain.

Thank you.
